

The Missing Anniversary Gift

Tonight, one of you hid the other's anniversary gift so well that even you can't remember where. Now you have to solve it together, no phones, no cheating, just questions.

---

Role One: The Hider

You hid the gift somewhere in the last two weeks. You don't remember where, but you remember three true details: what room you were in, what you were wearing, and one thing that distracted you that day. Answer honestly, but only when asked directly.

Role Two: The Detective

Interview the Hider like it's an actual investigation. Ask about their day, their routines, their habits, anything that narrows down a room or a shelf. You have ten questions to solve the case.

---

Solve It

Once the Detective names a location, go check together. Wrong guess? Trade one more clue and try again. This works even if there's no actual gift; the fun is in the interrogation.